

Erick Hernandez

SOFTWARE DEVELOPER

Profile

My name is Erick Hernandez and I'm from Mexico City.

I enjoy creating things that live on the internet. My interest in web development started back in 2018 when I decided to try editing custom Tumblr themes — turns out hacking together a custom reblog button taught me a lot about HTML & CSS!

Fast-forward to today, and I've had the privilege of working as a freelance developer at an advertising agency, a start-up. My main focus these days is building accessible, inclusive products and digital experiences for a variety of clients.
